

INSTRUCTIONS FOR AUTHORS

1) HOW TO SUBMIT A MANUSCRIPT

To submit a manuscript, please create an account in the Journal's web-based submission management system (Click "Register your submission account" at the bottom of the home page). Once the editorial staff give your account the requisite permissions, you will be able to access the submission tools. Authors are asked to provide their affiliation, email address, and phone number.

2) MANUSCRIPT CONTENT

We accept original research articles, book reviews, and research reports. We also consider for publication transcriptions of old historical documents, such as handwritten letters and memoirs, that are unpublished, provided they are accompanied by a commentary that explains the importance of the document for the history of ideas. Manuscripts are assessed on topic suitability, cogency of argument, and originality. Concerning topic suitability, we publish both special issues and regular issues. Special issues have a specified title and topic. If you mean to publish your work in a special issue, pay careful attention to the call for papers and make explicit your intention to the editorial staff. Regular issues have no specified title and topic. If you mean to publish in a regular issue, you are just required to remain in the field of the history of ideas. This is a discipline with its own methodology and field of inquiry, not to be confused with the history of philosophy, the history of science, or the history of literature. There are different traditions and schools of thought in the history of ideas. We are not fundamentalist about research orientations, but we require methodological awareness from the authors. Presently, the acceptance rate for submitted articles is less than 50%.

3) PAPERS FORM

The submitted documents should be composed with a standard word processor (Microsoft Word, Mac Word, Open Office). Only one version of the contribution may be submitted, in order to prevent confusion. We generally accept manuscripts that are in length up to 60,000 characters (with spaces), but occasionally we may consider longer pieces. Book reviews may not exceed 10,000 characters (with spaces). If your manuscript exceeds these parameters, please contact the editors before submitting your manuscript through the system and indicate the character count in the cover letter. If the paper contains figures, each figure should be saved in a separate file. The figure should be provided in a printable quality. Tables should be limited as much as possible. Along with the manuscript the author should hand in a short abstract (up to 200 words) in English, regardless of the language in which the article is written (in addition to an abstract in the language of the article, if other than English). He/she should conclude the article with a complete bibliography of the cited works (even if the bibliographical information is already present in footnotes). He/she should also suggest at least 3 key-words. Articles submitted without adhering to these rules will be returned for correction or desk rejected.

4) SELECTION

Orbis Idearum is a double blind peer reviewed journal. Reviews are assigned to the reviewers either automatically or manually. Reviewers are selected by the editors taking into account conflicts of interest, competence, and topic preferences.

5) ETHICAL CODE

No double-submission is permitted. The author needs to confirm in writing that her/his contribution has not yet been published, nor has it been offered to another journal or publication organ. Authors retain copyright and may republish their material elsewhere, as long as Orbis Idearum is acknowledged as the primary publication site. If the article contains figures, the author must possess all necessary permissions to reproduce in print and electronic form any copyrighted work, including graphs, photographs, illustrations, and other graphic images. Each author submitting a paper to Orbis Idearum agrees with the license specified on the website. Before publication, the author will receive a proof-copy for before final acceptance. Responsibility for the views presented in an article is solely that of the author. The journal does not have article processing charges nor article submission charges.

6) LANGUAGE

Orbis Idearum is a multilingual journal that currently accepts contributions in English, Italian, and Polish. If you are interested in submitting a manuscript in either French or German, please contact the editors first to make sure that there are reviewers available in those languages. Any author who is not fully fluent in English/Italian/Polish (submission language) is urged to obtain assistance with manuscript preparation from a fluent colleague or from professional editorial services. Manuscripts with considerable language issues can be desk rejected by the editors before peer review.

7) EDITORIAL NORMS

Citations should be placed in double quotation marks (“ ... ” / « ... » / „ ... ”), according to the editorial norms that apply to each language (see additional rules below). Citations within citations should be set off by single quotation marks. Longer citations (50 words or more) should be set as a block text and separated from the previous and following paragraphs by a blank line. The block quotation should be indented, and should not be enclosed by quotation marks. Omissions within citations should be denoted by three dots put in angular brackets. The brackets should be separated from the following and the preceding words by a regular word space. All foreign terms (such as Latin words) should be set in italics. The use of abbreviations and acronyms is permitted provided they are defined the first time they are mentioned in the submission.

7a) Instructions for English Submissions

Spelling, capitalization, and punctuation should be consistent within each essay and should follow the style recommended in the latest edition of The Chicago Manual of Style. See instructions published at this external link:
